HFM SUCCESS STORIES

CALCTRA has numerous success stories of formerly incarcerated securing meaningful careers after returning to their communities.

Richard Barnfield

Richard Barnfield graduated from CALCTRA's Healthcare Facilities Maintenance Program at Salinas Valley State Prison. He returned to his community and went to work for Five Keys and now holds the Lead Position for Showers of Hope, an organization providing relief to unhoused individuals and families.

“ CALCTRA was my first job. I am eternally grateful for it. It helped me grow as a person. I had no idea how to be an employee. This program creates employees, and that is what is helping me thrive on the outside.”

Timothy Jackson

Timothy Jackson graduated from CALCTRA's Healthcare Facilities Maintenance Program and returned to his community in 2017. He is now the owner, founder, and CEO of Quality Touch Cleaning Systems in Southern California. His business is expanding thanks to his training through CALCTRA's HFM program at the California City Correctional Facility. He and his team clean office buildings, legal firms, and bio-tech companies like Truvian Sciences. Timothy is married and has started growing his family.

“ I am so blessed to have graduated from CALCTRA's program learning those job skills employers value. I am a proud business owner and committed to making work environments the cleanest and safest they can be by cleaning beyond what the eye can see.”
